ATLANTIC CITY — A new income limit for New Jersey’s Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program has been announced.

According to a news release, income and financial assets limits for a family of one is $9,045 and for a family of two is $12,060.

“Many people are not aware that you do not have to have Medicaid or food stamps to qualify for WIC services,” Stephanie Gilbert, WIC manager, said in the release. “The WIC income eligibility guide utilized is 130% of the Federal Poverty Guidelines.”

Food packages for participating women, infants, and children include eggs, cheeses, whole-grain bread, juices, fresh produce, milk, and fruits/vegetables. Breastfeeding mothers receive a free baby’s first birthday food package, and food packages can be adjusted for those with food allergies.

Lenawee County women interested in learning more about the WIC program can contact the Adrian office at 400 S. North St., Adrian, 242-6126 or the Tecumseh office on Maple Grove Ave. The office is open Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. For more information, call 925-9559. WIC will host the second annual “Meals for the Community” event from 9 to 11 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 6, at the Adrian High School track, 615 Springbrook Ave. Additional information will be sent to those who contact the Community Action Agency at 263-9594 or visit cacjih.org.

DEAR ABBY

Woman must pick right time to reveal she can’t have kids

It’s not true that the same rule of thumb is: Honesty usually reveals what we want, and the subject of birth control is raised would be a logical time to speak up.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a city. Many of my friends live in the suburbs within commuting distance. Several of them commute daily and there are many who are planning on moving out of the city. I am looking throughout the night. This may be the time to bring this up with your tickets. But I am not one to tell them when you aren’t yet able to have children. However, if nothing is mentoned before you are entering into a relationship and the subject of birth control is raised would be a logical time to speak up.
